Key Findings

Manufacturers and Renewable Energy

160 large manufacturing companies:

- 40 (25 percent) have renewable energy targets
- 18 have 100% renewable energy targets
- 132 (83 percent) have greenhouse gas reduction targets
- 22 have engaged in state renewable energy policy advocacy (2015-2017)

Nebraska-Specific Findings

- 6 facilities from 4 manufacturing companies with 100% RE commitments
 - Procter & Gamble, Apple, Mars, and Kellogg
- 8 facilities from 3 other manufacturing companies with RE commitments
 - BD, Cargill and Tysons Foods

Leadership Profile: General Motors Invests in Wind Energy in the Midwest

- GM Goal: 100 percent renewable electricity by 2050.
- New 200 MW wind purchase will power all Ohio and Indiana manufacturing facilities - 20% of their global electricity needs.

Establishing a 100 percent renewable energy goal helps us better serve society by reducing environmental impact. This pursuit of renewable energy benefits our customers and communities through cleaner air while strengthening our business through lower and more stable energy costs.”

—GM Chairman and CEO Mary Barra

Renewables: The Economic Development Edge

“For us, [renewable energy is] kind of a gate. If we couldn’t do that, we would not be here. To Iowa’s credit, Iowa saw this and had the vision to work with the utilities and so forth so it could happen.” – Apple CEO Tim Cook

“The availability of renewable energy choices is also a key factor for many of us when we choose where to do business.” - General Mills, GM, Nestlé, P&G, Target, Unilever, Walmart

“We urge state governments to look hard at steps they can take to promote customer choice for renewable energy so that they can open the doors to new investments.” - Adam Siegel, Senior Vice President, Retail Industry Leaders Association

Renewable Energy Policy Advocacy by Manufacturers

What States Can Do To Attract Business

- Remove barriers to renewable energy development and access, so manufacturers can buy power that is cheap and clean
- Support customer choice policies, such as third-party purchase agreements for onsite and offsite renewable energy
- Foster dialogues between utilities and large energy customers, to ensure easy development of the next generation of utility green tariff programs

“It is critical that we continue developing the renewables, because, believe me, at the end of the day, if the Facebooks and the Googles and the PayPals and the Amazons think that we are not committed to renewable energy, they will not come here. Period, end of story.” - Ohio Governor John Kasich

“We met with the leaders from Microsoft, Google and Amazon, and they made it perfectly clear that they will only do business and create jobs in states that can provide renewable energy to power their operations.” – Virginia Governor Terry McAuliffe
